all others similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

v.

1 BEAUTY US, LLC d/b/a BeautyWays; d/b/a
Karina Products; and d/b/a Strands Color;

Defendant.

Case No. 24-4909

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT
& DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiff, SUSAN COMPETELLO (“Plaintiff” or “Ms. Competello”), on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated (collectively, “Plaintiffs”), by and through their undersigned counsel, as and for their class action complaint upon Defendant, 1 BEAUTY US, LLC, hereby alleges the following:

INTRODUCTION

1. Plaintiff is a visually-impaired and legally blind person who requires screen-reading software to read website content while using the computer. (Ex. A – Susan J. Competello, Legally Blind Diagnosis, dated 11/20/2023) Plaintiff uses the terms “blind” or “visually-impaired,” as Plaintiff’s central visual acuity with correction is less than or equal to 20/200.

2. Defendant, 1 BEAUTY U.S., LLC, is a California corporation that owns several related entities in the beauty industry and maintains multiple Websites, including <https://1beauty.us>; <https://www.beautyways.com>; <https://www.karinaproducts.com>; and <https://www.strandscolor.com> (the “Websites” or “Defendant’s Websites”). These websites serve as premier online sources for beauty products, offering consumers an exceptional selection of hard-to-find, international and specialty items. This includes over 5,000 skincare, cosmetics, hair care, and beauty accessories for both men and women. (see <https://1beauty.us-about-us>) (last accessed 6/14/2024).

3. Plaintiff brings this civil action against Defendant for their failure to design, construct, maintain, and operate the Defendant's Websites to be fully accessible to and independently usable by Plaintiff and other blind or visually-impaired people. Defendant's denial of full and equal access to the Websites, and therefore denial of the goods and services offered thereby, is a violation of Plaintiff's rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA").

4. Based on a 2020 U.S. Census Bureau report, approximately 8.1 million people in the United States are visually impaired,<sup>1</sup> including 2.0 million who are blind. According to a 2016 report published by the National Federation of the Blind, approximately 418,500 visually impaired persons live in the State of New York.<sup>2</sup>

5. Congress provides a clear and national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities. Such discrimination includes barriers to full integration, independent living, and equal opportunity for persons with disabilities, including those barriers created by websites and other public accommodations that are inaccessible to blind and visually impaired persons. Similarly, New York City law requires places of public accommodation to ensure access to goods, services, and facilities by making reasonable accommodations for persons with disabilities.

6. Defendant's Website(s) are not equally accessible to blind and visually impaired consumers; therefore, Defendant is in violation of the ADA. Plaintiff now seeks a permanent injunction to cause a change in Defendant's corporate policies, practices, and procedures so that Defendant's Websites will become and remain accessible to blind and visually-impaired consumers.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

7. This Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 42 U.S.C. § 12182, as Plaintiff's claims arise under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182, et seq.

8. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 over Plaintiff's claims under the New York State Human Rights Law, Article 15 (Executive Law § 290 et seq.)("NYSHRL"); the New York City Human Rights Law, N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-101 et seq., ("NYCHRL") & § 296 et seq.; and the New York State Civil Rights Law, Article 4, § 40-c and § 40-d ("NYCRL").

9. Venue is proper in the Southern District of New York, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b) and (c), in that Defendant conducts and continues to conduct a substantial and significant amount of business in this District via the internet. Furthermore, a substantial portion of the conduct complained of herein occurred in this District because Plaintiff, who resides within the State and County of New York, attempted to utilize the subject Websites, <https://1beauty.us>; <https://www.beautyways.com>; <https://www.karinaproducts.com>; and <https://www.strandscolor.com>, within this judicial District on a number of occasions.

10. Defendant 1 Beauty US, LLC, is a California corporation with its principal office located at 77720 Springfield Lane, Palm Desert, California, 92211, and is subject to personal jurisdiction in this District because Defendant purposefully targets and otherwise solicits business from New York State residents through its highly interactive Websites, <https://www.beautyways.com>; <https://www.karinaproducts.com>; and <https://www.strandscolor.com>. (last accessed on June 14, 2024).

11. Defendant has been and is committing the acts or omissions alleged herein in the Southern District of New York that caused injury and violated the rights the ADA prescribes to Plaintiff and to other blind and other visually impaired-consumers. A substantial part of the acts and omissions giving rise to Plaintiff's claims occurred in this District on several separate occasions.

12. Plaintiff has been denied the full use and enjoyment of the facilities, goods and services offered to the general public on Defendant's Websites in New York County. These access barriers that Plaintiff encountered have caused a denial of Plaintiff's full and equal access multiple times in the past, and now deter Plaintiff on a regular basis from accessing the Defendant's Websites in the future. Relevant precedent has established that venue is proper in the district in which Plaintiff tried and failed to access a website.<sup>3</sup>

13. The United States Department of Justice Civil Rights Division has stated that, "[t]he Department has consistently taken the position that the ADA's requirements apply to all the goods, services, privileges, or activities offered by public accommodations, including those offered on the web.” (See Guidance on Web Accessibility and the ADA).

14. This Court is empowered to issue a declaratory judgment under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

THE PARTIES

15. Plaintiff, SUSAN COMPETELLO, at all relevant times, was and is a resident of the City and State of New York.

16. Plaintiff is a blind, visually-impaired handicapped person, and a member of a protected class of individuals under the ADA, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)-(2), and the regulations implementing the ADA set forth at 28 CFR §§ 36.101 et seq., and the NYCHRL. Plaintiff is unable to utilize a computer or device without the assistance of screen-reading software, such as Nonvisual Desktop Access or “NVDA.”

17. Upon information and belief, Defendant is a California corporation, whose principal place of business is located at 77720 Springfield Ln, Palm Desert, California, 92211, and who owns the parent company, “Beauty US 1, LLC,” described as, “[a] premier online source for beauty products that offers consumers more than 5000 exceptional hard-to-find, international and specialty products, with new ones added daily.” (see, <https://1beauty.us/about-us/>) (Last accessed June 14, 2024).

18. Moreover, Defendant operates and maintains the subject Website, <https://1beauty.us>, which provides consumers a gateway to their other beauty-related subsidiaries, including BeautyWays, Karina Skincare, and Strands Hair Color, each with its own corresponding website, including <https://www.beautyways.com>; <https://www.karinaproducts.com>; and <https://www.strandscolor.com>, offering their own unique specialty beauty products and services.

19. Defendant's Websites and the goods and services offered thereupon, is a "public accommodation" within the definition of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7)(j). See Andrews v. Blick Art Materials, LLC, 268 F.Supp.3d 381 (E.D.N.Y. 2017); Romero v. 88 Acres Foods, Inc., 580 F.Supp.3d 9 (S.D.N.Y. 2022).

NATURE OF ACTION

20. The Internet has become a significant source of information, a portal, and a tool for conducting business, doing everyday activities such as shopping, learning, banking, researching, as well as many other activities for sighted, blind, and visually-impaired persons alike.

21. In today's tech-savvy world, blind and visually impaired people have the ability to access websites using keyboards in conjunction with screen access software that vocalizes the visual information found on a computer screen or displays the content on a refreshable Braille display. This technology is known as screen-reading software. Screen-reading software is currently the only method a blind or visually-impaired person may use to independently access the internet. Unless websites are designed to be read by screen reading software, blind and visually-impaired persons are unable to fully access websites, and the information, products, goods contained thereon.

22. Blind and visually-impaired users of Windows operating system-enabled computers and devices have several screen-reading software programs available to them. Some of these programs are available for purchase and other programs are available without the user having to purchase the program separately, such as the popular screen-reading software program for a Windows computer, Nonvisual Desktop Access "NVDA".

23. For screen-reading software to function, the information on a website must be capable of being rendered into text. If the website content is not capable of being rendered into text, the blind or visually-impaired user is unable to access the same content available to sighted users.

24. Screen readers have rules and expectations about what the gathered information is and should be and uses sophisticated rules to interpret what it has “seen” i.e., gathered with help from the operating system, the app in question, and other ways. Based on information gathered and subsequently interpreted, screen readers use components such as text-to-speech (TTS), braille, and other output mechanisms to present screen content. (see, e.g. NVDA illustration below):

25. The international website standards organization, the World Wide Web Consortium, known throughout the world as “W3C,” has published version 2.1 of the Web Content

Accessibility Guidelines (“WCAG 2.1”). WCAG 2.1 are well-established guidelines for making websites accessible to blind and visually-impaired people. These guidelines are universally followed by most large business entities and government agencies to ensure websites are accessible.

26. Non-compliant websites pose common access barriers to blind and visually impaired persons. Common barriers encountered by blind and visually impaired persons include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. A text equivalent for every non-text element is not provided;
- b. Title frames with text are not provided for identification and navigation;
- c. Equivalent text is not provided when using scripts;
- d. Forms with the same information and functionality as for sighted persons are not provided;
- e. Information about the meaning and structure of content is not conveyed by more than the visual presentation of content;
- f. Text cannot be resized without assistive technology up to 200% without losing content or functionality;
- g. If the content enforces a time limit, the user is not able to extend, adjust or disable it;
- h. Web pages do not have titles that describe the topic or purpose;
- i. The purpose of each link cannot be determined from the link text alone or from the link text and the programmatically determined link context;
- j. One or more keyboard operable user interface lacks a mode of operation where the keyboard focus indicator is discernible;
- k. The default human language of each web page cannot be programmatically determined;

- l. When a component receives focus, it may initiate a change in context;
- m. Changing the setting of a user interface component may automatically cause a change of context where the user has not been advised before using the component;
- n. Labels or instructions are not provided when content requires user input, which include captcha prompts that require the user to verify that he or she is not a robot;
- o. In content which is implemented by using markup languages, elements do not have complete start and end tags, elements are not nested according to the specifications, elements may contain duplicate attributes, and/or any IDs are not unique;
- p. Inaccessible Portable Document Format (PDF); and
- q. The name and role of all User Interface elements cannot be programmatically determined; items that can be set by the user cannot be programmatically set; and/or notification of changes to these items is not available to user agents, including assistive technology.

27. Websites have features and content that are modified on a daily, and in some instances, hourly basis, and a one-time “fix” to an inaccessible digital platform will not cause the digital platform to remain accessible without a corresponding change in corporate policies related to those web-based technologies. To evaluate whether an inaccessible website has been rendered accessible, and whether corporate policies related to website technologies have been changed in a meaningful manner that will cause the website to remain accessible, the website must be reviewed on a periodic basis using both automated accessibility screening tools and end user testing by disabled individuals.

STANDING

28. Plaintiff, SUSAN COMPETELLO, is a blind, visually-impaired handicapped person and a member of a protected class of individuals under the ADA, under 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)-(2), and the regulations implementing the ADA set forth at 28 CFR §§ 36.101 et seq., and NYCHRL. For Plaintiff to access the Internet, she must utilize a computer which contains a screen-reader, such as “NVDA for Windows.”

29. Screen reader “software translates the visual internet into an auditory equivalent. At a rapid pace, the software reads the content of a webpage to the user.” Andrews v. Blick Art Materials, LLC, 286 F.Supp.3d 365, 375 (E.D.N.Y. 2017) As the Hon. J. Weinstein explained:

“The screen reading software uses auditory cues to allow a visually impaired user to effectively use websites. For example, when using the visual internet, a seeing user learns that a link may be “clicked,” which will bring her to another webpage, through visual cues, such as a change in the color of the text (often text is turned from black to blue). When the sighted user's cursor hovers over the link, it changes from an arrow symbol to a hand.

The screen reading software uses auditory—rather than visual—cues to relay this same information. When a sight impaired individual reaches a link that may be “clicked on,” the software reads the link to the user, and after reading the text of the link says the word “clickable.”...Through a series of auditory cues read aloud by the screen reader, the visually impaired user can navigate a website by listening and responding with her keyboard.”

Id. at 373. See also American Federation for the Blind, Screen Readers, <https://www.afb.org/blindness-and-low-vision/using-technology> (“Computer Access for People Who Are Blind or Have Low Vision,” & “Using Technology”) (last accessed on May 20, 2024; estimating 26.0 million adult Americans reported sight deficiency.

30. Plaintiff was injured when attempting to access Defendant’s Website, www.beautyways.com on June 12, 2024, from her home in New York County, in an effort to purchase various products, including “Borotalco Moisturizing Liquid Soap,” and “Kniepp Shower, Happy Time-Out Red Poppy,” the latter containing “Cannabis Seed Extract, which hydrates and soothes blissed-out skin,” amongst other specifically formulated products sold in a very small number of retail outlets (<https://wwwbeautyways.com/searchcontroller=kniepp=shower2C+Happy+Time-Out.>) (last accessed June 14, 2024).

31. However, when attempting to discern information about these desired products, Plaintiff encountered numerous access barriers that denied her full and equal access to “BeautyWays” online goods, content, and services.

32. Upon information and belief, many of the products are often sold out as quickly as they are posted because of their extreme popularity, vastly superior quality, and low pricing. Thus, as previously stated, on June 12, 2024, Plaintiff had been attempting to purchase a number of products wholesale because of the difficulty when shopping in person, the companies’ 5000+ product inventory, and comparatively low pricing. However, Plaintiff was unable to effectively navigate through the relevant sections of the website <https://beautyways.com> because, for instance, many of the product images displayed therein lacked “alt. text,” (“alternative text”) or descriptive elements, preventing Plaintiff’s understanding of the Webpage content.

33. Moreover, the Website contained numerous “broken links,” most labeled with uninformative text like “click here” or none at all. In this case, when the screen reader encountered a broken link, it was only able to read out the uninformative text or simply announce that there’s a link, but without providing any context or purpose for the link. This was a frustrating experience for Plaintiff because she desired to purchase these specialty items, unobtainable elsewhere online.

34. These access barriers in the conjunctive caused Plaintiff to suffer confusion and exasperation while navigating but did not deter Plaintiff from trying again on June 13, 2024, to no avail.

35. By contrast, the image below illustrates what shoppers hear when browsing the website of an online store, Custom Ink, with a screen reader. (Custom Ink, Home Page, <https://www.customink.com>) (last accessed May 15, 2024). To the right, is an image with alternative text, highlighted in green, which reads: “One burlap and cotton tote bag with a custom printed architectural company logo.” Although invisible on the screen, screen reader auxiliary aids read this highlighted text aloud in order to describe Custom Ink’s products to shoppers who cannot see. Without this detailed alternative text, screen reader users cannot determine what goods and services are available for purchase; they cannot shop online independently.

36. The access barriers previously mentioned prevented Plaintiff from discovering the available products and services offered and which left Plaintiff unsure if Defendant's e-Commerce platform actually contained many of the advertised products.

37. As stated, Plaintiff returned to the Website on June 13, 2024, in order to determine whether the Defendant had corrected its deficiencies by including, for instance, mandatory descriptive elements of those items offered. Yet, despite Plaintiff's use of the screen reader, Plaintiff had been unable to access those desired products and services.

38. Unfortunately, as a result of visiting Defendant's Website from her home, and from investigations into the accessibility of Defendant's Website performed on her behalf, Plaintiff is aware that significant portions of are unusable, due to various barriers that deny her full and equal access to Defendant's online services.

39. On June 18, 2024 & June 19, 2024, Plaintiff's counsel conducted accessibility audits on all 3 of the Websites, using Sort Site, by Power Mapper's "Usability and Accessibility Testing" program; and the "Web Accessibility Evaluation Tool" or "Wave." These web crawlers confirmed the presence of multiple violations of the ADA on each Website as reflected within the completion of said audits. See Ex. B [beautyways.com]) - E – consisting of multiple SortSite and WAVE Accessibility Reports)

- a. For example, Ex. B – Sort Site Report(s) indicated "21 Level 'A' (Beautyway) Issues on 12380 pages," including hundreds of Unlabeled Headings, which when encountered by a sight-impaired individual using NVDA for instance, directs the user to unknown sections, pages, and areas of a particular website, causing confusion and frustration. This not only disrupts the user's navigation but also undermines the users experience.

- b. In addition, Ex. C – Sort Site Report indicated “7 Issues on 9601 pages,” such as hundreds of ‘Empty and/or Nameless Links’ throughout the Website, which do not possess an Accessible Name – preventing the user from differentiating one section or page from another and from those offered products. This also causes confusion and frustration when a user attempts to access a link without an accessible name.
- c. Moreover, Ex. D – Sort Site Report, indicated “15 Level ‘A’ (Karina Products) Issues on 14078 pages,” reflected numerous ‘Accessibility Barriers,’ including Redundant & Empty Links that Contain No Text Causing the Function or Purpose of the Link to be Hidden from the User; Linked Images Missing Alt-Text; and Missing Alternative Text, amongst numerous other serious access barriers.
- d. Finally, Ex. E – WAVE Report, (Strands Color) indicated the presence of 13 Types of Errors, including Linked Images Missing Alt. Text; and Empty Links, each of which causes extreme confusion when encountered by an individual using a screen reader absent appropriate aids.

40. Due to the aforementioned (and other) access barriers, which prevented Plaintiff from discerning crucial information about the desired goods and services, Plaintiff was unable to complete her search and purchase those desired products and services, including whether any physical retail establishments carry those products sold by Defendant and their distance to Plaintiff’s residence in New York County.

41. The law requires that the Defendant reasonably accommodate Plaintiff’s disabilities by removing these and all existing access barriers. Plaintiff has been, and in absence of an injunction, will continue to be injured by Defendant’s failure to provide the online content and services in a manner that is compatible with screen reader technology.

42. Defendant's denial of full and equal access to and enjoyment of the goods, benefits, and services of the Website, has caused Plaintiff to suffer an injury in fact due to Plaintiff's inability to purchase the desired items

43. Despite this direct harm and frustration, Plaintiff intends to access the Website in the future to purchase other desired products and services offered, including but not limited to the above-described products offered by Defendant, upon the Website's remediation, because of the comparatively low pricing; the company's overall online reputation for using only, all natural ingredients.

44. Through Plaintiff's attempts to use the Website, Plaintiff has actual knowledge of the access barriers that make these services inaccessible and independently unusable by blind and visually-impaired people.

45. Because simple compliance with the WCAG 2.1 Guidelines would provide Plaintiff and other visually-impaired consumers with equal access to the Website, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant has engaged in acts of intentional discrimination, including but not limited to the following policies or practices:

- a. Constructing and maintaining a Website that is inaccessible to visually-impaired individuals, including Plaintiff;
- b. Failing to construct and maintain a Website that is sufficiently intuitive so as to be equally accessible to visually impaired individuals, including Plaintiff; and
- c. Failing to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind and visually-impaired consumers, such as Plaintiff, as a member of a protected class.

46. Defendant therefore uses standards, criteria, or methods of administration that have the effect of discriminating or perpetuating the discrimination of others, as alleged herein.

47. The ADA expressly contemplates the injunctive relief that Plaintiff seeks in this action. In relevant part, the ADA requires:

In the case of violations of . . . this title, injunctive relief shall include an order to alter facilities to make such facilities readily accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities . . . [w]here appropriate, injunctive relief shall also include requiring the . . . modification of a policy . . .

42 U.S.C. § 12188(a)(2).

48. Because Defendant's Website has never been equally accessible, and because Defendant lacks a corporate policy that is reasonably calculated to cause the website to become and remain accessible, Plaintiff invokes 42 U.S.C. § 12188(a)(2) and seeks a permanent injunction requiring Defendant to retain a qualified consultant acceptable to Plaintiff ("Agreed Upon Consultant") to assist Defendant to comply with WCAG 2.1 guidelines for Defendant's Website. Plaintiff seeks that this permanent injunction requires Defendant to cooperate with the Agreed Upon Consultant to:

- a. Train Defendant's employees and agents who develop the Website on accessibility compliance under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines;
- b. Regularly check the accessibility of the Website under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines;
- c. Regularly test user accessibility by blind or vision-impaired persons to ensure that Defendant Website complies under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines; and;
- d. Develop an accessibility policy that is clearly disclosed on Defendant's Website, with contact information for users to report accessibility-related problems.

49. Although Defendant may currently have centralized policies regarding maintaining and operating the Website, Defendant lacks a plan and policy reasonably calculated to make them fully and equally accessible to, and independently usable by, blind and other visually-impaired consumers.

50. Upon information and belief, Defendant has invested substantial sums in developing and maintaining the different Websites and has generated significant revenue from their online platform. These amounts are far greater than the associated cost of making Defendant's Websites equally accessible to visually impaired customers. Without injunctive relief, Plaintiff and other visually-impaired consumers will continue to be unable to independently use the Website.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

51. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated, seeks to certify a nationwide class under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and 23(b)(2): all legally blind individuals in the United States who have attempted to access Defendant's Website and as a result have been denied access to the equal enjoyment of goods and services, during the relevant statutory period.

52. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated, seeks to certify a New York City Subclass under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and 23(b)(2): all legally blind individuals in the City of New York who have attempted to access Defendant's Website and as a result have been denied access to the equal enjoyment of goods and services offered, during the relevant statutory period.

53. Common questions of law and fact exist amongst the Class, including:

- a. Whether Defendant's Website is a "public accommodation" under the ADA;

- b. Whether Defendant's Website is a "place or provider of public accommodation" under the NYCHRL;
- c. Whether Defendant's Website denies the full and equal enjoyment of the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities, violating the ADA; and
- d. Whether Defendant's Website denies the full and equal enjoyment of the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities, violating the NYCHRL.

54. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the Class. The Class, similar to the Plaintiff, are severely visually impaired or otherwise blind, and claim that Defendant has violated the ADA or NYCHRL by failing to update or remove access barriers on the Website so that the website can be independently accessible to the Class.

55. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the Class Members because Plaintiff has retained and is represented by counsel who is competent and experienced in complex class action litigation, and because Plaintiff has no interests antagonistic to the Class Members. Class certification of the claims is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) because Defendant has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class, making appropriate both declaratory and injunctive relief with respect to Plaintiff and the Class as a whole.

56. Alternatively, Class certification is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) because fact and legal questions common to Class Members predominate over questions affecting only individual Class Members, and because a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this litigation.

57. Judicial economy will be served by maintaining this lawsuit as a class action in that it is likely to avoid the burden that would be otherwise placed upon the judicial system by the filing of numerous similar suits by people with visual disabilities throughout the United States.

58. Moreover, judicial economy will be served maintaining this lawsuit as a class action for numerosity purposes in that it is likely that the number of patrons who have attempted to utilize the services of Defendant's online platform exceeds 50 or more sight-impaired individuals.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Violations of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182 et seq.)

59. Plaintiff, SUSAN COMPETELLO, on behalf of herself and the Class Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

60. Section 302(a) of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., provides:

No individual shall be discriminated against on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of any place of public accommodation by any person who owns, leases (or leases to), or operates a place of public accommodation.

42 U.S.C. § 12182(a).

61. Defendant's Websites are considered a "public accommodation" within the definition of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7). The Websites are a service that is offered to the general public, and as such, must be equally accessible to all potential consumers.

62. Under Section 302(b)(1) of Title III of the ADA, it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities the opportunity to participate in or benefit from the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of an entity. 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(i).

63. Under Section 302(b)(2) of Title III of the ADA, unlawful discrimination also includes, inter alia:

[A] failure to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures, when such modifications are necessary to afford such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to individuals with disabilities, unless the entity can demonstrate that making such modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations; [and] a failure to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that no individual with a disability is excluded, denied services, segregated or otherwise treated differently than other individuals because of the absence of auxiliary aids and services, unless the entity can demonstrate that taking such steps would fundamentally alter the nature of the good, service, facility, privilege, advantage, or accommodation being offered or would result in an undue burden.

42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iii).

64. The acts alleged herein constitute violations of Title III of the ADA, and the regulations promulgated thereunder. Plaintiff, who is a member of a protected class of persons under the ADA, has a physical disability that substantially limits her major life activity of sight within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. §§ 12102(1)(A)-(2)(A). Furthermore, Plaintiff has been denied full and equal access to the Websites, have not been provided services that are provided to other patrons who are not disabled, and has been provided services that are inferior to the services provided to non-disabled persons. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy the discriminatory conduct as the violations are ongoing.

65. Under 42 U.S.C. § 12188 and the remedies, procedures, and rights set forth and incorporated therein, Plaintiff requests relief as set forth below.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Violations of the New York City Human Rights Law)
(“NYCHRL”)

66. Plaintiff, SUSAN COMPETELLO, on behalf of herself and the New York City Sub-Class Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

67. N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a) provides that “It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person who is the owner, franchisor, franchisee, lessor, lessee, proprietor, manager, superintendent, agent or employee of any place or provider of public accommodation: [b]ecause of any person’s . . . disability . . . directly or indirectly: [t]o refuse, withhold from or deny to such person the full and equal enjoyment, on equal terms and conditions, of any of the accommodations, advantages, services, facilities or privileges of the place or provider of public accommodation”.

68. Defendant’s Websites are a “public accommodation” within the definition of N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(9).

69. Defendant is subject to NYCHRL because it owns and operates the Websites, making it a “person” within the meaning of N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(1).

70. Defendant is in violation of N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a) in refusing to update or remove access barriers to Defendant’s Websites causing the Websites and the services integrated completely inaccessible to the blind. This inaccessibility denies blind patrons full and equal access to the facilities, products, and services that Defendant makes available to the non-disabled public.

71. Defendant is required to “make reasonable accommodation to the needs of persons with disabilities . . . any person prohibited by the provisions of [§ 8-107 et seq.] from discriminating on the basis of disability not to provide a reasonable accommodation to enable a person with a disability to satisfy the essential requisites of a job or enjoy the right or rights in question provided that the disability is known or should have been known by the covered entity.” N.Y.C. Admin.

Code § 8-107(15)(a).

72. Defendant's actions constitute willful intentional discrimination against the Sub-Class on the basis of a disability in violation of the N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8107(4)(a) and § 8-107(15)(a), in that Defendant has:

- a. constructed and maintained a Website that is inaccessible to blind class members with knowledge of the discrimination; and/or
- b. constructed and maintained a Website that is sufficiently intuitive and/or obvious that is inaccessible to blind class members; and/or
- c. failed to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind class members.

73. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy the discriminatory conduct as these violations are ongoing.

74. As such, Defendant discriminates, and will continue in the future to discriminate, against Plaintiff and other members of the proposed class and subclass on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, accommodations and/or opportunities of the Websites under N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a). Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and members of the Class will continue to suffer irreparable harm.

75. Defendant's actions were and are in violation of the NYCHRL, and therefore, Plaintiff invokes the right to injunctive relief to remedy the discrimination.

76. Plaintiff is also entitled to compensatory damages, as well as civil penalties and fines under N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-120(8) and § 8-126(a) for each offense as well as punitive damages pursuant to § 8-502.

77. Plaintiff is also entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

78. Under N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-120 and § 8-126 and the remedies, procedures, and rights set forth and incorporated therein Plaintiff prays for judgment as set forth below.
